Prince Harry turns 40 with birthday wishes from King Charles, Prince William and Princess Kate

Prince Harry celebrated a milestone birthday<sup>1</sup> on Sept. 15, one he said he was "excited" to celebrate.

Harry, the youngest child of King Charles III and the late Princess Diana, is now 40. "I was anxious about 30, I'm excited about 40," Harry, the Duke of Sussex, said in a statement to the BBC, ahead of his birthday. "Whatever the age, my mission is to continue showing up and doing good in the world."

On his birthday, Harry received well wishes<sup>2</sup> on social media from his family, even as he continues to have a distant relationship with his father and his brother, Prince William. The official Instagram account of Britain's royal family shared a photo of Harry on Sunday along with the caption<sup>3</sup>, "Wishing The Duke of Sussex a very happy 40th birthday today!" William and his wife Kate, the Princess of Wales, re-shared the royal family's message on Instagram and X, writing alongside it, "Wishing a Happy 40th Birthday to The Duke of Sussex!"

The birthday wishes marked a first in three years, according to ABC News royal contributor Victoria Murphy.

"This is significant. It's the first time that the royal family has acknowledged Harry's birthday on social media in three years," Murphy said. "This is a milestone birthday, but it's still being looked at as a sign that relations are improving."

Harry's last known in-person visit with Charles was in February, when Harry traveled to the U.K. to see his dad after learning of his cancer diagnosis.

Harry also returned to the U.K. in August to attend a memorial service for his maternal uncle, Lord Robert Fellowes, according to the BBC. William also attended the service, but the brothers reportedly did not interact.

In his comments to the BBC ahead of<sup>4</sup> his birthday, Harry expressed contentment based on his home life with his wife Meghan, the Duchess of Sussex, and their two children, Prince Archie, 5, and Princess Lilibet, 3.
